Guidelines

We recommend selecting songs that MEAN something to you for your special dances at a wedding reception. The songs don't even necessarily have to be slow songs. If you are not music enthusiasts or just don't have songs in mind, we suggest picking songs with the lyrics that mean something to both of you. Why do you think that Sarah McLachlan's song Ice Cream is on many first dance song lists? It's because it has cool words like "your love is better than chocolate, better than anything else that I've tried". Corny? Maybe. But who cares what everyone else thinks. Maybe you met at an ice cream parlor. Then, the song would be awesome as a first dance song.

Basically, we challenge you to be creative. You don't have to be like everyone else and dance to the overplayed pop love songs. For that matter, you don't have to take our suggestions either. They are just that, suggestions!

Thought of the Day: The average length of time a song plays is approximately 3 minutes. Then, at a three-hour wedding reception, there will be approximately 60 songs played of non-stop music entertainment.
